24 HOURS IN

Munich

BY NICOLE & CHRISTOPH TROJER

Weirdos | Movie Freaks | Freshly baked parents

OUR PERFECT 24 HOURS IN MUNICH

The perfect 24 hours for Weirdos start with a real hidden spot and of course with music: Go to St. Jakobs Platz and step on the golden tiles on the ground - compose your own bell sound and dance to it. Then grab a "Kalbskassemmerl" (slice of veal meat loaf in a bun) at Metzgerei Schlagbauer. They get the fresh delivery at 8:45 in the morning - a time where there's no tourist group to be seen anywhere in this usually quite busy area. Have them pack it for you in tin foil, head to the very nearby Church of St. Peter, climb all the way to the tower top, unwrap your bun and enjoy the wonderful view over Munich, enriching it with the tasty Kalbskas odour.

After your morning workout and the well earned healthy breakfast, take a stroll along the still sleepy Kaufinger Straße to visit the Deutsches Jagd- und Fischereimuseum. The museum itself is quite odd and old-school but has kind of a strange charm to it with all its stuffed animals and historic hunting devices in those great white halls. Also some of the special exhibitions prove to be quite ironic and funny and you can't miss out on the Wolpertinger - a very strange kind of Bavarian unicorn.

All that dead energy might have made you tired, so to brighten up again and embrace life - get a helium balloon! Preferably an ordinary unicorn or smurfette, at BallonCentrum. With your little buddy at hand - ideally wrapped around your hand to avoid loss - Munich is yours to take over: As you are already near it, relax a little while looking at some nice packages and other well crafted body parts of the Greek and Roman sculptures at Glyptothek.

Now you're already in the mood, so stop by at Chouchou Voyeur and treat yourself or your partner with some hot new lingerie or bedroom toy. Roooaaaaar, you tigers and pussycats!

You must be quite hungry by now, so just walk across the street to Café Katzentempel. Socialize with your buddies (they have real cats there!), but don't forget to get your helium toy out of the way of the cats' claws and have a vegan lunch. In the very unlikely event of a cat- or veganism - antipathy go to Café Puck which is just next door and has mainly two-legged visitors and staff and a solid and tasty menu for reasonable prices. (By the way, Türken- and Amalienstraße offer some very nice, also non-weirdo, shops that you might want to have a look at.)

For dessert grab your flying (and walking) friend(s) and get some ice cream at Der verrückte Eismacher. Tasty flavors such as Sepia, Guinness, Cheshire Cat, Pregnancy Dream, Pumpkin or Fish Sticks await you there among the usual suspects.

Happily stuffed you can continue your shopping trip at Gärtnerplatz- and Glockenbachviertel: Get there with public transport - if people look at you with your helium balloon, do a dance for them - or by rental bike. Stroll around the Gärtnerplatz area which offers nice small shops, antique stores and hip cafés, you can't go wrong there.

After a long day on your feet give them a little rest while you watch some trashy but classic B-movies, a strange art film or indie flick at Werkstattkino or Museum Lichtspiele with its daily changing program.

Now after you got back some energy you are ready for the grande finale, starting with the Hofbräuhaus. This tip might seem a bit obvious but its just the best freak show Munich has to offer throughout the year. People of all countries come together to get wasted, in between you'll find some old Bavarians that have an own storage space at the beer house for their beer mugs and a traditional brass band gives you the soundtrack to the evening. Just get a beer and something to eat, a nice view on the spectacle and enjoy the craziness you are about to witness OR feel free to be a part of it - but NEVER without your helium balloon!

As you are very likely to see things you'd rather want to forget it's best to end your day with the house cocktail of Pusser's bar...the Painkiller comes in three strengths for you to choose according to how much of your memory you want to erase. Although this bar is literally around the corner of Hofbräuhaus hardly any tourist finds it (we couldn't imagine why).

A long Weirdo Day lies behind you, you have seen quite a lot of Munich's hot and weird spots. Now give yourself a pad on the back, tuck in your helium buddy and finally try out whatever you bought at Chouchou's shop today! Stay weird!

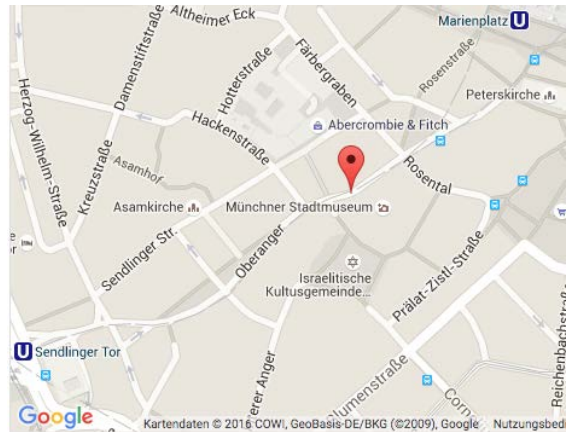

*Enjoy exploring,
